

Free Meals for Children

Economic hardship has worsened for many of our neighbors, and food insecurity is a reality for many of the families FCPS serves. During these rapidly changing times, we are working to adjust our services in ways that are best for our students and families.

To that end, the revamped meal distribution plan should enable us to consistently provide meals for children who rely on us for food, while also ensuring that we are following all guidelines from federal, state, and local health officials about limiting contact and maintaining social distance.

As long as schools remain closed because of the COVID-19 pandemic, students can pick up boxed meals between 11 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. on Mondays and Wednesdays. We have ordered additional food and implemented ways to quickly adjust to meet increased needs at any site.

Anyone age 18 and younger can receive meals at any of the following pick-up locations, regardless of where they live or attend school.

- Arlington Elementary
- Booker T. Washington Elementary
- Breckinridge Elementary
- Bryan Station High School

We are working with community partners to provide supplemental meals to families in need and expand our capacity. Since new offerings are constantly developing, anyone seeking information about these resources should call the United Way of the Bluegrass 211 Contact Center for the most up-to-date information. Dialing 211 from any phone will connect you to this service.
