2021-2022 Suggested Summer Reading Program

Directions: We all know that students should not take the summer off completely. Summer learning should be focused on experiences, family/friends, and reading for pleasure. However, with so many closures, reading is more important than ever. Reading can provide students a way to escape daily life while learning at the same time.

Although summer reading is not required, you are highly encouraged to read something this summer. Here are a few ideas:

★ Any reading will count including:

- Read any print book, eBook, or listen to an audio book.
- Read any nonfiction articles online or in print from a magazine or newspaper about something that interests you.
- Read a book from the Kentucky Bluegrass Award (KBA) Winner's List, 2021 KBA Master List or a KBA 2022 nominated title.

Or you may be able to attend a class or community event either online or in person.

For example, you could attend a...

- ★ Workshop at the Carnegie Center for Literacy & Learning -- Online or in person (if available). Check their website for details on offerings.

OR

- ★ Lexington Public Library -- LPL will be offering free online activities this summer.

OR

- ★ Any online literacy program or event you find.
