and the Department of English*

SAVE THE DATE: OCTOBER 19, 2018

We invite your high school seniors, to the University of Kentucky campus, to celebrate the National Day on Writing and to learn about professional and career opportunities in writing.

Our students go on to careers in publishing, professional writing, writing for specific industries, health writing, social media, content management, law school, technical writing, writing for gaming and entertainment industries, lobbying, speech and grant writing, and other jobs.

The celebration will offer students unique and exciting opportunities to learn about:

1. Professional writing in the food, science, health, sports, horse, gaming, and other industries.
2. Career opportunities in social media, web development, video production, and podcasting.
3. Career opportunities in government, political lobbying, non-profits, education, and other professions dependent on argumentative and persuasive skills.
4. Career opportunities in technical writing and publishing.
5. Preparation for law school

Students will have the opportunities to:

1. Sit in on college classes that focus on social media, film, argumentation, legal writing, science writing, and more
2. Participate in hands on work with video cameras, podcasting equipment, making memes
3. Meet current and former students

We imagine the day structured around three scheduled events in which students can:

1. Participate in small, fun activities with UK faculty inspired by what we study and teach
2. Sit in on classes to better understand what we teach at UK
3. Regroup and discuss our day

PLEASE RSVP YOUR INTEREST IN PARTICIPATING IN THIS DAY:
