Del Escritorio del Director

Robert Crawford, Principal

This past week students at Maxwell participated in a variety of instructional activities. On Monday, classes began taking the MAP test during specified blocks. Throughout the week, during the rotation for specials, students were able to interact with Ozobots. Finally, on Friday several classes participated in educational field trips. As we enter the last full week of instruction in December, we look forward to additional learning opportunities and seasonal celebrations.

This week on Monday evening the Maxwell band, orchestra, and chorus students will provide their first concert of the year. Please consider joining us for this authentic demonstration of student talent and performance!

This week MAP testing will continue for the school. Students will participate in the assessment in accordance to their grade level schedule. Please encourage your students as they engage with this assessment.

While we have not completed the first semester, students and families from the 5th grade have an initial opportunity to interact with the SIP program at Bryan Station Middle School! Please see the add in this newsletter for additional details.

As always, thank you for your partnership as we continue to strive to provide the best learning opportunities and outcomes for the students of Maxwell!
